

It List 2016: the Best New Hotels on the Planet

Sant Francesc Hotel Singular in Palma de Mallorca, Spain and modern amenities. The lobby, once an entrance for horse-drawn carriages, is now a soaring space with pale Santanyi stone pillars and preserved geometric moldings. The 42 rooms, meanwhile, are all crisp lines and cool shades of gray—a minimalist complement to beamed ceilings and courtyard views. Sure, you have all of Palma at your fingertips, but don't skip dinner at Quadrat, a Mediterranean-leaning restaurant in the house's former stables—the wine list features plenty of local bottles that never make it off the island.
